When you were first brought to the Residential School.
What did you think & how did you feel?

International Center for Transitional Justice

Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada
Youth Retreat
October 2010

have you ever been formally apologized for?
(has the school that took you away and made many suffer said sorry yet?)

The International Center for Transitional Justice and the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) of Canada collaborated to host a youth retreat in Vancouver, Canada, October 28th to 31st 2010. This video showcases highlights from the retreat where participants learned about truth commissions: their purpose, procedures, opportunities for youth involvement and applications both in Canada and around the world. The goal of the course was to build capacity amongst young people in Canada and enable increased youth participation in the Canadian Indian Residential School TRC.

The International Center for Transitional Justice is an international non-profit organization specializing in the field of transitional justice. ICTJ works to help societies in transition address legacies of massive human rights violations and build civic trust in state institutions as protectors of human rights.
